

Drive Efficiencies and Speed for Your Site with Secure, Remote Monitoring

Medidata Remote Source Review is a cloud-based solution that rapidly and remotely enables sites to upload critical documents for off-site review by assigned monitors. Remote Source Review automates document workflows to the right monitor for the right study and site allowing for remote Source Data Verification (SDV) and Source Document Review (SDR). The system also provides real-time assessment of subject safety and data quality. You simply upload source documents via a secure browser that automatically blinds Personally Identifiable Information and Protected Health Information, eliminating the use of error-prone, manual data redaction. With Remote Source Review, the time you spend preparing for monitoring visits for SDV/SDR is greatly reduced. It takes just seconds to upload, prepare, and submit each document.

RSR not only reduces your time in preparing for on-site monitoring, it also reduces the manual entry of patient information, offers an easy mechanism to see document status, and simplifies query management.

Benefits of Remote Source Review for Sites

RSR provides secure remote monitoring of critical source documents that allows your site to easily manage all monitoring-related tasks.
